

Public Disruption

Recently, the sitting-out area next to my building has become an increasingly popular spot for a certain group of youngsters. This group has been nothing but trouble since they have started hanging out here.

I have never met such disrespectful and inconsiderate people in my life; it's baffling that they have so little care for public areas. They use foul language rather loudly despite the many children around them, blast their music on full volume and leave heaps of garbage behind when they leave.

Many locals and regular visitors of the sitting-out area have politely requested that they stop swearing in front of the children, playing their music so loud, and to clean up after themselves, only to be given dirty looks.

The rubbish that the group leaves behind also attracts rats and roaches. It's absolutely disgusting and just unacceptable that these youngsters have ruined a clean and pleasant place like this.

There must be something done about this disruptive group so I have filed a complaint. Readers, if you do any of the things I have mentioned above, I ask that you stop for the sake of the general public.

Chris Wong

