Miss Chan,

Hi miss, how have you been since the holidays started? It must be wonderful! By the way, it's Chris here, Chris Wong of your LS class in 4A. This email is regarding a summer holiday destination recommendation. You must have got many emails like this but don't book your tickets yet!

I was thinking that you should visit India in the Summer holiday. As I know that along with being a liberal studies teacher you also love to learn the history of different countries, and India is a place all about history. Apart from the historical achievement, India also has one of the finest arts in the world. I'm not talking about art performances rather I am talking about the art called food. I know how much you love tasting food from different cultures so India might be the best foodie place in the whole world.

First of all, I would like to take you to different cities, attractions, and places that will make your visit a memorable one. In the first of such lists, I have two choices, Delhi the capital of India, and Hyderabad. Those two cities are very famous for their history, foods and architectures. Delhi has one of the seven wonders in the world called the Taj Mahal, which is a type of architecture that is very famous for its earthquake-proof design. It also contains famous historical tales that King Shazahan built the Taj Mahal for his wife Mumtaz within only few days. The most amazing food you can find in Delhi is the famous " Dilli Wala Butter Chicken and Naan ". You may try this in the Indian restaurants in Hong Kong and tell me how it tastes.

Hyderabad is my next recommendation as it also has a beautiful history. In Hyderabad, there is a long, tall tower called the Qutub Minar. It was also built during the Mogul Empire. The food in Hyderabad is one of the most delicious foods in India. The most famous dish here is the Hyderabadi chicken Briyani. It is full of flavours and aroma, which is just mouthwatering. You can also taste the famous Kebabs in Hyderabad.

Another destination I recommend highly is the city where I came from, which is called the city of joy, Kolkata or Calcutta. This place is famous for its history, fruits and famous historical figures. One of the most famous historical figures of India Sobash Chandra Bose was born in Calcutta. Indian history has a special place granted to Sobash Changra Bose. He was also the founder of the Azad Hind Fouz which is now the Indian National Army. The food in Kolkata is just amazing and can't explain in words how tasty it is. The most famous dishes here are the sweets, and a special egg roll and Bengal Briyani. Calcutta houses famous and luxurious hotels for accommodation.

I truly recommend you to visit India. I guarantee it will be an amazing experience for you. I hope to see you in India soon.

Regards
Chris Wong
