

Spiderman – No Way Home

Thapa Agrim

2D (20)

Spiderman – No Way Home is a film I recently watched with a couple friends of mine. It is a film that is associated with Marvel so it is pretty obvious that this film is an action-packed superhero film. It is about a superhero named Spiderman who saves the earth many times. But one day, his secret identity is revealed by a villain! As a result, many people try to get to Peter Parker, which is the superhero's real name. He then seeks help from his friend, Doctor Strange, who is also a superhero. He tells him to make everyone forget that he is Spiderman. So, Doctor Strange starts performing a spell. But Peter keeps on interrupting him. As a result, many villains from another universe teleport and try to kill him. So, he starts fighting back with the help of his friends.

In my opinion, this film has one of the best plots that I have seen so far. It is very thought-provoking because when Peter is fighting alongside his friends, more villains come. There is only one way to solve this problem: everyone in the planet will forget about Peter. But Peter is ready to face it and, as a result, no one remembers him and the film ends in a very sad way.

The other parts of the film like the fighting scenes are really fast-paced and thrilling, especially when Spiderman is fighting against a super villain called Green Goblin or all of his friends. The fighting scenes against super villains like Electro and Sandman thrill the viewers. The computer-generated images, as usual in Marvel films, are mind-blowing. From start to finish, the special effects are perfect and with the sound effects that really give the vibes. I also give a thumbs up to the director because the directing was really good as well; the jokes were on point and make the film amusing. The costumes for the superheroes and villains are also cool-looking and attractive.

At the end, this film is a ten out of ten because I can't see any flaws. From the comedic lines to the exciting fight scenes to the heartbreaking ending, and even the song after the film are perfect. It is like putting a bit of every genre into one film.

If you, the reader, still haven't watched Spiderman – No Way Home, then I highly recommend you watch it. Not a single second of your time will be wasted.